Crystal Beach project awarded $2M grant

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

City of Madison announced this week that a massive project to rehabilitate the city's iconic Crystal Beach pool has been awarded a $2 million grant by the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs (OCRA).

The city confirmed in a news release that the grant, which will come from OCRA's Community Development Block Grant funds, is a result of Madison's designation as an Indiana Stellar Community in the fall of 2017. As part of that designation, Madison was eligible to apply for a number of grants to help make additional improvements to local properties and infrastructure and renovation of the aging Works Project Administration-era pool complex, located on Vaughn Driver overlooking the Ohio River, was identified as the top target for that funding.

Madison's Crystal Beach Pool will receive a grant for $2 million in renovations and upgrades beginning in March 2021 due to an Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs Community Development Block Grant.

"The renovation of Crystal Beach has been a priority throughout the Stellar Communities Designation. The decision by the Stellar Communities Executive Team to select one project to receive the $2 million from the state enabled us to expand the scope of work for this project," said Nicole M. Schell, City Planner-Preservation Coordinator.

The Crystal Beach Pool House Rehabilitation project focuses on improving handicap accessibility and extending the life of the facility. The project includes an improved concession area with ADA access to the street, an accessible spray

Jefferson County Sheriff's Deputies, searchers and ATV riders emerge from a field Thursday near a wooded area where the body of Shane Melton was found after he had been missing since Tuesday morning. Preliminary indications are that he may have died from hypothermia. For additional coverage, visit our media partner WKMNEWS.COM

Police recover body of missing man

BY MARK CAMPBELL

The body of a Madison man who was reported missing on Tuesday — and was believed to have been involved in a pickup truck accident late Sunday night — was found Thursday in a wooded area just off J.A. Berry Lane near Madison.

Shane Melton

Shane Melton, 32, was reported missing by family members almost two days after local police investigated a single vehicle accident at the intersection of West Dawson Smith Road and Shun Pike just north of Madison. Police now believe Melton was the driver of that pickup and that he left the scene before police arrived.

According to Jefferson County Sheriff's Department Chief Deputy Joshua Taylor, although the vehicle involved in the accident was not registered to Melton, police have reason to believe that Melton was driving at the time of the wreck. They know that there was nobody at the scene when first responders arrived but they do not know why Melton ended up in a wooded area just over a mile from the accident site.

Melton's family members and friends reported him missing to police on Tuesday morning and began searching for him in the area of the accident on Wednesday. That search, by foot and ATV, was joined by police, the Air Methods helicopter, a local pilot by airplane and a drone operator on Thursday with the body located at about noon on Thursday near the edge of a wooded area a couple of hundred yards off the highway in the 1300 block of Berry Lane.

Taylor said on Thursday that no official cause of death has been established and Jefferson County Coroner Rodney Nay said an autopsy is scheduled for Sunday. According to Nay, there were no signs of foul play and no apparently injuries considered serious enough to be fatal so the preliminary indication is hypothermia.

JCHD needs help delivering vaccines

Staff, volunteers praised for efforts

BY BOB DEMAREE

The demand for the COVID-19 vaccine has become an overwhelming task for the Jefferson County Health Department, and workers received high praise by Commissioner Bobby Little at Thursday's Jefferson County Commissioners meeting.

"I want to compliment the health department on their work on administrating the vaccine, and how efficient and orderly it has been. It's amazing what they can do over there. They have had a number of retired doctors and nurses come back and administer the shots. It has been a very impressive operation, so kudos to (Jefferson County Health Department Administrator) Tammy Monroe and the health department for making that happen. She said they are going to get 500 doses more for the next three weeks, and as they continue to administer, it's a plus for us, so congratulations to them for the work they are doing."

Monroe said the local health department has been "tasked with the largest vaccination undertakings in history." She expressed they could use the help of more medical personnel such as licensed retired doctors, licensed retired nurses, license emergency medical technicians and clerical help.

"We have no scheduled lunch breaks so anyone wanting to donate snacks or lunches to approximately 14 volunteers/employees would greatly be appreciated," she added.

Monroe said as the vaccine becomes more available they will need even more volunteers in order to administer shots as quickly as possible and see to it that local residents are vaccinated as soon as possible.

"The quicker we can do this, the quicker our lives can get back to some type of normalcy and our small

Man staying at hotel facing drug charges

BY COURIER STAFF

An Austin man who was staying at a Madison hotel is facing felony drug charges and resisting law enforcement after drugs were discovered in his room by the hotel staff and police were notified.

Jim Lee Walker

According to an affidavit filed by Jefferson County Prosecutor David Sutter in Jefferson Circuit Court Thursday, Jim Lee Walker, 44, Austin, is charged with dealing in methamphetamine, a Level 2 felony; dealing in a schedule IV controlled substance and possession of methamphetamine, both Level 3 felonies; possession of a controlled substance and resisting law enforcement, both Level 6 felonies; and resisting law enforcement, a Class A misdemeanor.

Walker was arrested by Jefferson County Sheriff's Officers on Tuesday and lodged in the Jefferson County Jail without bond. He is also being held on an unspecified warrant by another jurisdiction.

According to court documents, Walker was renting a room at the Comfort Inn, 3767 Clifty Drive, when narcotics and paraphernalia were discovered by the hotel cleaning staff. In the affidavit, JCSO Detective Charles Miller stated that over the course of the investigation, authorities received information that Walker had been dealing large amounts of narcotics and the report provided details of surveillance that indicated heavy traffic in and out of the hotel room.

DRIVER WHO FLED POLICE FACING MANSLAUGHTER

The driver who crashed his car while fleeing police on US 42 in Gallatin County, Kentucky, Sunday — resulting in the death of an Ohio woman — has been charged with second degree manslaughter and other felonies in connection with that incident.

Josh Hodges, 31, of Florence, Kentucky, was charged with multiple offenses as a result of an ongoing investigation by the Kentucky State Police including manslaughter 2nd degree, assault 2nd degree and criminal mischief 1st degree. On the night of the collision Hodges was also charged with fleeing or evading police 1st degree as well as multiple traffic offenses by the Warsaw Police Department. He is currently lodged at Metro Corrections in Louisville.

The crash occurred when a Warsaw Police Department officer attempted to stop a Toyota passenger car on US 42 for speeding and the vehicle failed to stop for the officer. During the pursuit the passenger vehicle failed to negotiate a curve and collided with a concrete wall.

A passenger in the front seat, Tiffany McNeil, 34, of Florence, was injured and transported for medical care. Both she and Hodges were wearing seatbelts. A third passenger in the back of the car, Shanda Withrow, 54, of Hamilton Ohio, was not restrained and was pronounced dead at the scene by the Gallatin County Coroner.

TRAFFIC STOP LEADS TO DRUG CHARGE

A routine traffic stop on North Mulberry Street Thursday led to arrest of a Madison man on drug and paraphernalia charges.

Madison Police Patrolman Cameron Blankenship had stopped a car for a traffic violation at approximately 10 p.m. Thursday when officers found a passenger in the vehicle, Corey Dean Stewart, 34, Madison, to be in possession of methamphetamine and drug paraphernalia.

Stewart was transported to the Jefferson County Jail where he was lodged on preliminary charges of possession of methamphetamine, a Level 6 felony, and possession of paraphernalia, a Class C misdemeanor.

Blankenship was assisted by Detective Kyle Cutshaw, Senior Patrolman Aaron Watson and Patrolman Zack Nicholson.

Stewart;s bond was set at $1,005 cash.

PETS OF THE WEEK

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has a number of dogs and cats and kittens available for adoption.

Noah is a 5-month-old gray tiger short hair with a lot of white mixed in. He loves to explore and be loved on and is freshly recovered from a broken leg but that's never slowed him down. He's neutered and is current on vaccinations so the adoption fee is $80.

Snuggles, a boxer mix, is a big boy that loves to love and be loved. He doesn't realize how big he is and can be a handful at times so he will need basic command and leash training. But he's neutered and is current on vaccinations so the adoption fee is $100.

The shelter's new adoption policy effective Jan. 1 requires that all animals be spay/neutered and have their rabies vaccination before they can leave the facility. Animals that haven't been neutered and vaccinated can be pre-adopted but they will remain at the shelter until their surgery is completed. Adoption fees have also changed with dogs set at $100 and cats $80. The shelter is still by appointment only, so if you would like to make an appointment please email the shelter at email animal.shelter39@ jeffersoncounty.in.gov or call 812-273-1788.

Lower and upper class, what happened to the middle class?

Layin' it on the Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

"Current economic research confirms what many working people have long suspected- the middle class in America is vanishing at an astonishing rate." Steve Dybwad

Multiple surveys and research studies indicate that Americans, especially middle-class Americans, feel less prosperous now than in the last 50 years. Such findings represent the most downbeat assessments of personal progress in the last half-century. Of course, the pandemic has only made things worse.

An alarming number of people say they feel they haven't made any progress in their financial lives. Many feel they are moving backward and that their status as "middle class" is questionable.

An economic downturn fueled by the pandemic, upheavals in the stock market, joblessness, and an overall lack of faith in government solutions have contributed to the high numbers of people who say they can't get ahead. Retirement planning is out of the question.

Median household incomes have been in decline since 1999. Taxes have increased, and the buying power of the dollar is less every day. With the financial "RIGHT NOW" in so much upheaval, it's little wonder that most people cannot begin to contemplate the future.

However, the future will come, whether we prepare for it or not. If you want to be in a better financial position, you must consider ways to create multiple income streams both now and when you retire.

A sucker punch to your wealth

Most people are not told the whole story about money and how to make every dollar work harder for them. The financial media has drilled it into their heads that they have no other choice but to subject their cash to risk, even when they are retired.

Many Americans are conditioned to believe that the only way to finance large purchases, such as real estate, automobiles, or business equipment, is to crawl to a turn to a lender for a loan. Debt has been easy to access, and nearly half of all retirees are still paying mortgages and credit card debt long after leaving their jobs.

It's evident the old rules about how best to save for retirement no longer make sense and that losing even one dollar in retirement is not acceptable. It's more critical than ever before to re-balance one's portfolio. Depending on your age, risk tolerance, and current situation, you may want to move more of your wealth into "safe money" products such as life insurance and annuities.

You do have choices.

If you are serious about not running out of money in retirement or downgrading your lifestyle, you must actively engage with your money. It is not just about accumulation; it is also about distribution. How long will your money last?

You must:

1. Find a trustworthy, honest financial guide experienced in the "distribution" phase of finances.

2. Partner with your advisor to review and re-balance your portfolio as needed.

3. Research safe money products, especially annuities, which provide contractually guaranteed safety of principle, have tax advantages, and allow for steady growth.

4. Plan for health and long-term care needs.

5. Create a retirement and income blueprint and follow it.

A realistic approach to money and retirement, along with specific products, will help you make the most of the time when you no longer want, or are unable, to work.

Then there is the monster in the corner: Inflation! Carefully and strategically invest and mitigate inflation. The stock market seems insane. You may have heard about the "investing time horizon," the time you will need to begin the distribution phase of your asset base. But, with many people living well into their 80's, even 90's, that time horizon has become your life expectancy. You are very likely to discover that your retirement is as long or longer than was your career. That's why I feel that many, if not most, retirees need some allocation to alternative investments to stay ahead of inflation. Otherwise, they could find themselves with a lot less spending power.

Armed with relevant, actionable strategies and information, you can make the kinds of radical shifts that will enable you to retire with more wealth and less stress. If you don't, you will continue to pay more in taxes and fees than necessary, be exposed to market volatility, and wind up with less than you should have in retirement.

How to recognize, prevent human trafficking

DAVID SUTTER
JEFFERSON COUNTY PROSECUTOR

January is National Human Trafficking Prevention Month. First established in 2010, this month is set aside to recognize, learn about and work to prevent human trafficking. As your Prosecutor, we are taking this time to share information and educate our community about the prevalence and dangers of human trafficking so that we can work together to stop it.

Human trafficking is a crime that involves compelling or coercing a person to provide labor, services, or commercial sex. Indiana Code 35-42-3.5 states that a person who, by force, coercion, threat of force, or fraud, knowingly or intentionally recruits, harbors, provides, obtains or transports an individual to engage in labor or services commits promotion of human trafficking, a Level 4 felony. The penalties are increased if the victim of the crime is a minor.

Human trafficking is the fastest growing and the second largest criminal enterprise in the world, generating more than $150 billion worldwide. It is a rapidly growing crime in Indiana as well. According to the Indiana Attorney General's office, in 2019, 157 cases of Indiana specific human trafficking cases were reported to the National Human Trafficking Hotline, a 19% increase from the previous year. Among those 157 cases, 40 of them involved a minor. In addition to what is reported to the national hotline, service providers in Indiana also track the number of victims they assist annually. Included in the Attorney General's annual report on Human Trafficking, Ascent 121, an Indiana agency that specializes in helping victims of sex trafficking, reported helping 117 minors in the same year.

Human trafficking is the fastest growing and the second largest criminal enterprise in the world, generating more than $150 billion worldwide.

While large events in Indiana such as the Super Bowl and the Indianapolis 500 generate human trafficking, small Hoosier communities are vulnerable as well. In smaller communities, those who are susceptible to being trafficked have more difficulty finding help, as there are fewer organizations equipped to assist trafficking victims to escape and recover. Even if a victim escapes, he or she may feel unable to ask for help as it could be exposing someone else's relative, neighbor, or friend. This hesitation gives traffickers more exploitation opportunities.

One thing we can do to help prevent human trafficking is to be educated and aware of the signs of trafficking. According to the Indiana Attorney General's Human Trafficking Resource Page, human traffickers target disadvantaged youth, groom individuals by fulfilling their need for love and dependency, provide necessities the victim may not be able to provide him or herself, and/or induce drug use. Some signs of trafficking to look for include individuals who:

- Show signs of "branding", tattoos or jewelry of their trafficker's name
- Are unaware of their location, the date or time.
- Are unable to tell a consistent story about their personal information
- Avoid eye contact with other people.
- Wear inappropriate clothing for the weather.
- Exhibit signs of physical abuse and often cannot explain them
- Are accompanied by older, controlling individuals.
- Have excessive cash or expensive items that they cannot explain.
- Are considered a marginalized youth, such as youth who runaway, are homeless, often truant, have a relationship with an older individual and how self-esteem/dependency issues.

During this month and beyond, I hope the people of our community will have an increased awareness of human trafficking, and if you suspect someone is a victim please take steps in response.

If a minor is involved, call the Indiana Department of Child Services hotline at 1-800-800-5556; call local law enforcement, including my office at 812-265-8932 or call the National Human Trafficking Hotline at 1-800-373-7888

As your Prosecutor, I will continue to educate, investigate, and prosecute human trafficking perpetrators if cases should arise in our community. As always, we will keep the needs of crime victims at the forefront and help them receive the essential services necessary for recovery.

Predator Net has opened doors for Madison Police Department

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Mark Campbell

Madison Police Department Detective Shawn Scudder addresses Madison City Council on the topic of Human Trafficking earlier this week and the doors that 2020 investigation has opened for MPD to receive additional training and networking going forward.

Detective Shawn Scudder, Madison Police Department's lead detective in last year's Operation Predator Net online sting that resulted in more than 20 arrests of men trying to solicit sex from underage females, said that operation could be just the tip of the iceberg in the overall child solicitation and human trafficking problem being seen throughout the state and nation.

Speaking to Madison City Council to raise awareness to National Humane Trafficking Awareness Month this week, Scudder said being proactive about arresting child solicitors — he and other officers posed as underage girls on social media who were then contacted and solicited for sex by men from the Madison community and as far away as Michigan — is also a way to be proactive in enforcement against human trafficking because one crime can lead to the other as kidnapping, sex, drugs and alcohol often go hand-in-hand with child solicitation and trafficking.

"To be honest when we started Operation Predator Net, I didn't have very high expectations that we were going to get results, but it exploded into several months as a full-time commitment for several of us in the department," Scudder said. "Since Operation Predator Net, my eyes have kind of been opened to the world of human trafficking — something that before this was not even on my radar.

"Since we've done Operation Predator Net we've had countless organizations and agencies reach out to us asking us to assist them or join their efforts to combat human trafficking — a problem that's not only happening in other countries like we see on television but is happening in small communities just like Madison," Scudder said.

MPD recently joined the Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) task force which provides a network of officers and investigators to facilitate the investigation of crimes against children — including sexual predators and traffickers — and as a member of ICAC officers in Madison can receive additional training and have access to the latest forensics and investigative techniques and work with a national network of experts who skilled at solving human trafficking cases and providing resources for victims of those crimes.

He said the department has received training on how to recognize both human traffickers and trafficking victims and urged residents to become more aware and more skilled at doing the same.

"My belief that through Operation Predator Net and out future work with ICAC we have stopped and will continue to stop countless young children from becoming victims," Scudder said. "The victimization of children is one of the most horrific crimes there are and with the support of the city council and the mayor we will continue the extremely important work to protect our most vulnerable."

HALLS

"We are very lucky to have the Hall family so involved and dedicated members of our schools."

— Philip Kahn
president of Prince of Peace Catholic Schools

The Golden Shamrock award is the highest award within Prince of Peace Catholic Schools and is based on criteria such as long-term support of the schools, long-term community and volunteer service, exhibiting a positive image in the community and more.

Matt, Tammy and Chris will be honored following the all-schools Mass on Thursday, Feb. 4. The Mass begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Shawe Gymnasium. However, due to COVID-19, the event will not be open to the community.

"Please reach out to the Halls and thank them for all that they continue to do for our schools," said Kahn.

In addition to being active supporters and participants of Prince of Peace events and programs, the Hall family has provided use of the Hall Gym in the old Armory building downtown. The family purchased the building in 1999, and Shawe started using it as a second gym facility about a year later.

Tammy Hall said that when she first saw the gym there were no windows, so birds would roost on the cross beams and there were bird droppings on the floor that were six inches deep. The Halls replaced the windows, had the gym cleaned and refinished and painted the floor to make it suitable for use by the students, their sports teams and the community.

Kahn said the gym "is invaluable to our schools, our students and our families. Many groups use this gym all the time. We can't thank the Hall family enough for allowing the school to use the gym for their students."

Matt and Tammy Hall have three children, all Shawe High School graduates, including Zachary (2011), Alyssa (2007) and Seth (2004), and one grandchild, Penelope, who is in Kingdergarten at Pope John.

Matt, a 1977 Shawe graduate and 1981 graduate of the University of Evansville, is owner of Hall's Laundries. He coached Shawe's boys and girls golf teams from 1990 to 2016, winning 10 conference coach of the year awards. Tammy, a 1980 graduate of the University of Evansville, is program chair of nursing at Ivy Tech Community College in Madison.

Chris, a 1974 Shawe graduate, is married to Lynn Hall, the 1996 award recipient, and they have three children, all Shawe graduates, including Noah (2013), Nick (2009) and Nathan (2007). He coached junior high basketball for three years, and kept the boys basketball scorebook for eight years. He has also been instrumental in maintaining Hall Gym over the years to keep it functional for the schools.

pad, restored perimeter fencing and walls, a renovated accessible pool deck, repairs and renovations to the bath, shower and locker room area for ADA accessibility, an elevator for ADA accessibility to the second floor of the pool house as well as ADA accessible restrooms and a new pool liner that should extend the life of the pool by years.

"This award has been a long-time coming. For the past year, we have been building on the work of my predecessor, Mayor Damon Welch, to not only continue to work on the Stellar strategic investments, but to extend the useful life of Crystal Beach for the next generation," Mayor Bob Courtney said. I am grateful that OCRA has allowed us to modify the scope of the project such that it will have a positive impact on the community for the next two decades or longer."

Stellar Communities is a multi-agency state partnership aimed at helping communities reach their goals. The project is estimated to begin in March of this year. Plans for the project can be viewed at www.madison-in.gov/409/Stellar-Destination-Development.

businesses can start to thrive again," she said. Monroe said interested volunteers can call her office at 812-274-3881 and leave their name, phone number and the type of volunteer service they can offer and she will return their call.

WANT TO HELP?

Jefferson County Health Department Administrator Tammy Monroe said the local health department has been "tasked with the largest vaccination undertakings in history." She expressed they could use the help of more medical personnel such as licensed retired doctors, licensed retired nurses, license emergency medical technicians and clerical help. Monroe said interested volunteers can call her office at 812-274-3881 and leave their name, phone number and the type of volunteer service they can offer and she will return their call.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

- Commissioner David Bramer said he had hoped that a contract would be awarded for a construction manager for the county's multimillion dollar new jail project, "but we just got a copy of the contract right before the meeting, and we had not had a chance to look over that, so we will have to wait on that." He said construction documents have been received on the jail project, but they are waiting on hiring a construction manager before moving forward.
- Public hearings for the Jefferson County 2040 Comprehensive Plan will likely be in February, according to Bramer. "We have had a draft for six months but we have been waiting for a time for public input to move forward," said Bramer, who noted those efforts have been impacted by the pandemic's limitations on public gatherings. He said they are working toward advertising a virtual format for the hearings "so people have a chance to provide public comment."
- Highway Superintendent Bobby Phillips presented a update on road work, which has been expedited by mild weather so far this winter.

"If we can keep dodging snow, we can stay productive on culverts and ditches," he said. Phillips said he is hopeful of opening paving bids for roads across the county in February for work funded by the state's Community Crossings Grant Program.

- Phillips said he's fielded some interest about paving County Road 600 West, a gravel road north of Wirt, but that the highway is currently not slated for asphalt any time soon.

"There are no plans to change that surface except to continue to be gravel," he said. Phillips said the county's Gravel Road Conversion Program, which implemented standards to prioritize which gravel road might be converted to asphalt, may be difficult to fund.

"Looking at our funding, and realizing that has been projected to be off about $1 million, I don't know how maintainable our Gravel Road Conversion Program is going to be," Phillips noted.

- The Commissioners approved awarding the county's annual maintenance contract on voting machines to MicroVote for $12,000.
- Approved appointments to two county boards.

Charles Gilles, who is filling a vacancy following the resignation of Elbert Hinds for a term ending Dec. 31, 2023, and Bob Jacobson, who is filling a vacancy following the death of Spencer Schnaitter for a term ending Dec. 31 of this year, were named to the Cemetery Board.

Meanwhile, Wendy Lawson, Nancy Crisp and Bramer were named to the Jefferson County Board of Tourism.

Civil rights activist, author, and CNN commentator Bakari Sellers is "virtually" coming to Ivy Tech Community College on Jan. 29.

Southwestern, Switzerland claim ORVC wins

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Southwestern girls basketball dropped its second Ohio River Valley Conference game of the season while Switzerland County kept its ORVC hopes alive with a win in a flurry of leagues games on Wednesday and Thursday.

Southwestern, which lost by two at Switzerland last week, rebounded with a 53-19 win over Shawe on Wednesday at home but suffered a second-half meltdown in a 52-37 loss to South Ripley at home on Thursday.

Switzerland County improved to 3-1 in the ORVC with a 52-10 win over Shawe in Madison on Thursday.

Southwestern wasted little time taking control of its game with Shawe, scoring the first 17 points and cruising to the easy win. Rebel coach Devin Brierly backed her players off after an 18-2 first quarter and sent all 15 players on her roster into the game.

"We got everybody in, that was the plan and I was glad that it worked out the way that it did," Brierly said. "We just wanted to start out like we normally do and I thought our kids did a good job of getting the lead and making us feel comfortable going to some other kids."

Southwestern led 30-6 at halftime and 46-10 after three quarters. Shawe stepped up its game in the fourth, outscoring the Rebels 9-7 for the final margin.

"I was proud of our team as they didn't give up and played hard the whole time," Shawe assistant coach Greg Ison said. "Unfortunately, we have not had many practices due to being quarantined several times throughout the season and that really hurts trying to get any kind of consistency together."

Ten different players scored for Southwestern with Ellie Foley's 12 points leading the way. Ashton Goode added 10 points, Ashley Fulton had eight and Isabel Brooks and Trinity McLain scored five each.

Abigail Hill knocked down a pair of 3-pointers in the fourth quarter and finished with six points to lead Shawe while Phoebe Grote had five points and 10 rebounds while Katie Jacobs scored four.

Southwestern led South Ripley 10-9 after the first quarter and 22-18 at halftime but was outscored 19-8 in the third as the Raiders took over the game before closing the fourth on a 15-7 run to pull away.

Foley scored 22 points and had eight rebounds to lead Southwestern but no other Rebel had more than four points. Goode and Fulton each scored four while McLain had three points.

Rachel Meyer scored 18 points to lead South Ripley.

Just as Southwestern and South Ripley was tipping off, Switzerland County and Shawe were finishing up with the Pacers rolling to the 52-10 win. The game marked the fifth time this season that the Pacers have held an opponent to under 20 points.

Maddie Duvall had 16 points to lead Switzerland while Nora Hankins had 14 points and nine rebounds. Keirstan Oeffinger had six points and nine steals while Jessie Duvall came back from injury and played limited minutes but still scored three

Hanover comeback falls short against Rose

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Hanover's second-half rally fell short as the Panthers lost 71-67 conference rival to Rose-Hulman at home on Thursday.

The Panthers fell behind 39-26 at halftime and trailed 55-34 with 14:15 left in the game. Hanover then closed the game on a tear, outscoring the Engineers 31-12 to narrow the gap to two (67-65) on a Mark Albers layup with 21 seconds to play.

After the two teams traded points, Rose-Hulman missed a free throw giving the Panthers a chance. But Isaac Hibbard was was whistled for an offensive foul and Max Greenamoyer missed two free throws — all in the final six seconds — to end the threat. The Engineers' Terry Hicks hit two final free throws to ice the win.

Ty Houston, a sophomore from Union, Kentucky, scored 18 points while Hibbard, a senior from New Albany, had a double-double of 16 points and 10 assists to lead Hanover. Albers, a senior from Pendleton, scored 17 points while Greenamoyer, a freshman from Zionsville, had 12.

Dillon Duff scored 15 points, Samvit Ram had 11 and Hicks 10 to pace Rose-Hulman.

Hanover, now 2-1 overall and 2-0 in the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference, will travel to Rose-Hulman today to complete the two-game series. The Panthers then host Franklin next Thursday.

WHAT?

Feeling frustrated by family

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: All my life, since I was a kid, I always got abuse, judgment and blame from my own family. Now, as an adult, I still get all of that. When I got divorced, my family thought it was their right to judge and blame me. And they cut me off like I didn't exist. It's like I did some terrible crime so they had to punish me. There have been so many family functions and gatherings over the last few years, but no one invited me, as though I didn't matter. It was hard, but I tried to deal with it, and slowly moved on with my new normal.

Then, earlier this year, out of nowhere, my sister contacted me after so many years as if nothing happened. And she still seems to think that they did nothing wrong. And I have a hard time accepting what my sisters and brother did to me. So, I expressed to them that I was still upset about the way they treated me in the past — and then the attacks started. They said that the reason I was divorced was because I was so difficult.

Just to be clear, they were the ones who cut me off. I didn't break my relations with them. But it looks like that is the only way they will accept me if I agree that it was all my fault, that I deserved to be cut off. How do I accept it? I am a human being and didn't deserve such cruelty and punitive behaviors.

Please help me. Am I right to feel the way I do? Was it cruel for my family right to throw me out when they felt like it and then contact me again when they felt like it? I can fight the world, but I can't figure out how to deal with my own family. — Bewildered and Beleaguered by Family

Dear Bewildered: Feelings are not right or wrong. They simply are. But your hurt feelings are certainly understandable. It sounds as though you've been hauling some heavy emotional baggage for a long time — far more than I can begin to unpack in the space of a column. I strongly encourage you to seek therapy, and if the first therapist you find isn't a great fit, try another. With counseling, you can find peace within yourself, no matter what's going on with your family.

Dear Annie: You mentioned the great need for blood and plasma, but platelets and double reds are also in great need. My local Red Cross is open 365 days a year to collect these vital life-savers. — Pete

Dear Pete: I appreciate the important addendum. Platelets are essential in surviving and fighting cancer, chronic diseases and traumatic injuries. The American Red Cross says that every 15 seconds someone needs platelets. Because donated platelets must be used within five days, new donors are needed daily. Not all blood donation centers are capable of taking platelets. For more information, visit https://www.redcrossblood.org; from the website menu select "Donate Blood > Types of Blood Donations" and then click "Learn more about platelet donations." Or call 1 (800) 733-2767.

TMI phone calls

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I've noticed a strange habit that some people seem to have. Recently, several friends have talked to me on the phone while using the bathroom. I can hear everything that is going on, including the toilet flushing. It makes me very uncomfortable. Is it proper etiquette to be using the bathroom while talking on the phone?— Heard Too Much

Dear Heard: Is that a rhetorical question? No, it is not polite to bring someone into the bathroom with you telephonically. The next time someone does this, don't be afraid to say: "I'll try you back later. You sound busy."

Dear Annie: I was born with a cleft palate and nose, and I have a psychological complex from it that makes me self-conscious around others. But I would really like to meet someone and have a romantic relationship. Can you give me advice on how to go forward and just be myself? — M.P.

Dear M.P.: I hope this goes without saying, but having a cleft palate or nose doesn't make you unattractive. Anyone who says otherwise doesn't deserve the pleasure of your company.

Now, you cite your self-consciousness as a barrier to meeting people. I encourage you to consider trying therapy to nurture healthier self-esteem, first and foremost. The moment we fully love ourselves is the moment we're ready to accept love from someone else. You might also benefit from talking with other people who understand your experience. The Cleft Lip and Palate Association facilitates such support communities. Though they're based in the United Kingdom, you can join their online support communities at https://www.clapa.com/support/online-support.

Dear Annie: You recently published a letter from "Monarch Watcher," who said that Hass avocados led to habitat destruction of monarch butterflies. Do not swear off avocados as of yet. Monarchs have indeed experienced a sharp decline in habitat, but avocado production is not to blame. Here are some facts for you.

1. Eastern Monarchs winter in Mexico, western monarchs mainly in California.

2. Mexico established the Monarch Butterfly Biospace Preserve to help preserve the habitat.

3. In 2016, the U.S. stated it will accept avocados from all of Mexico, provided they can meet the measures put into place to prevent the spread of disease and insects set up by the farms in the Michoacan areas.

4. One contributing cause to the decline of monarch populations has been the weather in Texas: All the butterflies need to pass through Texas, which has had some severe droughts in recent years.

5. U.S. agriculture has been killing off weeds including milkweed. Milkweed flora is a big food source for monarch butterflies. A 2020 report estimates a loss of 165 million acres of habitat.

This year, monarchs should come under the endangered species act. They were petitioned in 2014, and the final decision is expected this year.

Please note that I do enjoy eating avocados but I am not associated in raising or production; I am just after truth in reporting. — Luke B.

Dear Luke: I am deeply sorry for publishing misinformation on monarchs. I referred to an older FDA document and didn't realize they'd changed their guidelines in 2016. Your fact-checking is appreciated.

No make-up dates have been announced.

Carroll, now 0-2 on the season, is scheduled to return to action on Friday, Jan. 29 at Henry County.
